

Coronavirus Crisis - CareShare Works

Depending on the circumstances, JCSUD's CareShare program serves to provide relief in times of emergency financial help with the water bill.

Due to COVID-19, it is likely that in days and weeks to come that some households may be faced with significant social and economic uncertainty. Recent school shut-downs, restaurants, church services, and countless closing across the business grid for the foreseeable future will impact workers and their families.

When crisis comes, it is a fine thing to observe how a community can pull together to overcome hardships. In a crisis such as this, JCSUD's CareShare program demonstrates that it can mitigate the impact this has on family finances.

A customer who has been financially impacted by COVID-19 may qualify for CareShare assistance with payment of their water bill. Contact JCSUD for evaluation to determine if assistance is appropriate.
