To Whom It May Concern,

Re: Enclosed Lead Service Line Survey

Interstate Engineering has been retained by the state of North Dakota to conduct an inventory of the water service lines throughout the City of Mooreton. Enclosed you will find some information regarding the state's objectives. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has mandated that all service lines be inventoried, with additional attempts to gather information taking place in 2025 through property owner self-identification and/or visual inspection by city officials or Interstate Engineering employee. Currently, there are grants available to help pay for these inventories, so it is important that you participate in the enclosed self-identification survey. These grants will run out, which will put an added burden on your city staff to complete these inventories.

Our goal, along with the city, is to have all property owners self-identify their water service line by filling out the survey. If you need help with this, or do not respond by 6/9/2025, Interstate Engineering staff will be going door to door to complete the inventory.

Thank you for your participation and if you have any questions, please email them to: leadservice@interstateeng.com

Sincerely,

Interstate Engineering
